I thought I had read many books about Venice, but the list of new books and writers is long, and I have many more to read. This book gives wonderful insights into Venice.

Over fifty of the very best writers on Venice richly evoke the past and present of La Serenissima, the world's most heartstoppingly beautiful city. Jan Morris arrives by sea. Casanova crosses the ominous Bridge of Sighs. Patricia Highsmith's Ripley gets his own palazzo. Kazuo Ishiguro introduces the musicians of St Mark's Square. D. H. Lawrence brings Lady Chatterley to Venice. Geoff Dyer gets under the skin of the Biennale. Sally Vickers' Miss Garnett climbs up to San Marco's horses. Thomas Mann gives us a sultry summer gondola ride. Tiziano Scarpa describes it all as only a Venetian can. Introduction by Jeff Cotton
